Charles' practice can be viewed as consisting of the routine and not so routine. On routine matters, Charles is sought after because he handles these tasks with minimal friction and in a timely manner. For the not-so-routine issues, Charles is hired for his understanding of the Nova Scotia Companies Act and his expertise in corporate, commercial and securities law. Charles' clients include large commercial clients and corporations dealing with their Nova Scotia incorporated subsidiaries. Some of the ways Charles has helped his clients are by:

- Conducting routine searches for national law firms.
- Incorporating unlimited and limited companies.
- Amalgamating and continuing companies under Nova Scotia law.
- Providing transaction and agency opinions on securities and corporate matters.
